Lobby For America

What this country needs is more individuals who feel that adherence to principle is more important than personal political prestige. Cynical realism and political expediency have brought the United States to the brink of collapse. As one American housewife asks in desperate earnestness, "Where are the lobbyists for America, for justice and for truth?" Millions ask this same question. They are frightened by the atmosphere of horsetrading and jockeying for power so evident in high government and labor circles at a time when the world is crying for statesmanship as well as food.

It is like a breath of clean mountain air when a responsible person in public or private life speaks out unequivocally for what he believes to be right, and in accordance with basic principles of the American idea of government, even though it may not be the popular thing to say at the moment. Such people are rare today. That is why the country is slowly drifting toward socialism and bankruptcy.

There is no one lobbying effectively for solvent government; for the right of the individual to join or not join a labor union; for an end to the strangling clutch of government bureaus on the activities of every private citizen. It is not popular to lobby for these things because too many people have the idea that in bureaucracy and organized compulsion lie sanctuary from inflation.

Fear of the hazards of the postwar world has led to confused restrictions and suppression of natural forces which can only result in an explosion of some kind. When it comes, those millions who believe in this country and its form of government will have to "lobby for America" as they never lobbied before.

Compulsion Opposed

The Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill (S. 1606) to place medical practice under compulsory Federal control, contains good points. There can be little disagreement with its provisions for Federal tax donations to states for the prevention, treatment and control of venereal diseases and tuberculosis, provided state management and local determination of need are maintained; nor for maternal and child-health care and for medical care and hospitalization where actual need is shown. But the medical profession is opposed to the bill's compulsory health insurance clauses which would establish a medical dictatorship. It does not wish to be subservient to a Federal Security Administrator who would be empowered to hire doctors, dentists, nurses, and technicians, and establish rates of pay for them; determine patients he could serve and in what territory; determine what hospitals or clinics may provide service, for whom and under what conditions, and direct the spending of vast sums.

While the impression prevails that socialized medicine would be largely free, a worker's earnings up to $3,600 a year would be subject to a compulsory tax of approximately 4 per cent—a deduction from his pay check of some $40 per $1,000 on earnings. Even though he preferred to join a prepaid voluntary medical service such as is being established in every part of the country, he would still have to pay the Federal assessment. The medical profession opposes such compulsion and regimentation because it feels that it will result in deterioration in the quality of medical care.

If You Don't Like Socialism, Oppose It!

For the past decade the advocates of Federal socialization of electric power have had a clear field to malign private power companies. Anyone who objected to the plan to substitute socialized power for private enterprise, as a matter of principle, was immediately branded a tool of the power trusts, an economic royalist, or some other unsavory term. The fact that socialized power is wholly contrary to our theory of government is carefully hidden from the people by its advocates.

When the private electric industry, long silenced by abuse from Washington, became vocal and decided to fight for its life, it was accused of "lobbying," an activity which power socialists considered their exclusive privilege. To silence the utilities, a bill to investigate their actions was proposed. But when it was enlarged to include the lobbying efforts of countless members of all government bureaus, including the gigantic Department of Interior, long the main promoter of socialized power in America, the matter was dropped. The utilities state they welcome Congressional inquiry into their organization an activities, and that under Article 1 of the Bill of Rights, they are entitled to petition Congress for redress of grievances, and will avail themselves of that right.

It is time that public servants be made to account for the use of tax funds to build a public power monopoly which is exempt from the anti-trust laws, the general tax laws, and which when established changes our form of government. It is time for industry and individuals to oppose as never before the encroachment of European socialism that is proposed for the United States under various guises.

LAKE VILLA

The members of the Official Board of the Community Church will be installed by the Pastor at the services next Sunday morning.

The trustees of the church held a business meeting Tuesday evening.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service has set the date of Wednesday, July 24, as the time of the annual summer sale to be held at the school gymnasium. A white elephant sale and card party will be held in connection, and doors open at noon, followed by dessert luncheon and card party. If you have some object for which you have no use in your home, either furnishings of any sort or clothing in your home, that is a white elephant, the ladies are asking for contributions of usable articles which may be brought to the Charles Hamlin garage for storage until the sale.

A reception and miscellaneous shower was held at the school gym Monday evening to greet the Rev. Pierson and bride, who returned last week to their home at the parsonage. The ladies of the W. S. C. S. served refreshments and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paske have purchased property at Grass Lake and moved there last week, so their home here is leased to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Madsen, who moved in immediately, and David Schrum and mother who lived in the Paske tenant house adjoining, have purchased a home in West View subdivision and moved there last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Churchill, of Rockford, visited at the Charles Madsen home over Sunday.

Joseph Nader, Jr., who has served in the navy for more than 26 months and made three trips overseas, was released at Great Lakes on June 21, and is enjoying a stay at his home here. He has however, signed up for 4 years for inactive service so is subject to call.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nickerson entertained Mrs. Nickerson's sister and family, of Elizabeth, Ill., a few days this week.

Peacock Camp for Crippled children, the former home of Mrs. Augusta Lehmann on Deep Lake, has been made ready for occupancy, and 24 handicapped boys between the ages of 13 and 18 left Chicago Monday to enjoy a four week holiday at the Camp. The boys are under guidance of competent instructors and will enjoy activities suited to their conditions. This is the 11th camping season which has been enjoyed by handicapped children since the Camp was organized in memory of Mrs. C. D. Peacock, by her three daughters, Mrs. W. W. Haether, Mrs. G. W. Reynolds, and Mrs. M. V. Reynolds and a group of North Shore women. The Camp provides recreation as well as an opportunity to adjust themselves to young people just out of hospitals but not quite ready to earn their living. They are under medical care while at the camp and after the boys go back, a group of girls will enjoy a similar outing.

A very pleasant family reunion was held Sunday at the John Walker home on Grand Avenue, when members of the Boehm families, also the service men of the community enjoyed picnic dinner on the lawn. Guests were present from Chicago, Northbrook, Antioch, Waukegan and Lake Villa, numbering more than 65.

Camp Cahokea, a Catholic camp for girls, is in full swing just west of the Village.

Mr. and Mrs. Traver Ellis and sons of Belvidere, are spending the week with Mrs. Ellis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Hooper.

Mrs. Carl Ekdahl was hostess for a Stanley products demonstration at her home for 16 ladies last Thursday evening.

Last Plane Out

By K. W. BROOKS
McClure Syndicate,
WNU Features.

HANK GIBSON fingered the weather report of the meteorologist. He ordered another cup of coffee and drummed on the counter. The coffee shop of the Hortonville Airport Terminal was not crowded, though there were obviously more passengers than the antiquated DC 3 could accommodate. It was the last scheduled flight of the day, and a lot of disappointed customers would have to drive back to Hortonville Center by automobile, cursing the snow and slush an airplane could ignore.

A frigid blast enveloped the room and condensed in whirls of vapor over the steam table. A large red-faced man put a tentative hand on the counter at Hank's left. "This seat taken?" he asked. Hank shook his head and wondered why every civilian from Dakar to Diamond Head picked him for company. "You counting on the Pittsburgh plane tonight too?" the man asked.

Hank looked out at the rough weather and shrugged. "Maybe," he said.

"I got to make it," the man said importantly. "Promised my daughter I'd be back sure. You know how kids are. Think their old man can make good on anything."

"Yeah," Hank said. "If you're from Pittsburgh you must have heard of me," the man went on. "Lawrence L. Grainton."

Hank shook his head. "Afraid not. I've been away a good bit." Grainton grinned. "Well, you get your share of the girls, I bet," he said. "Take my advice, son, and have your fling while you can. These little business trips are like a vacation. I could have done everything by telephone but it breaks up the monotony, a plane trip."

"What line are you in, Mr. Grainton?" Hank asked.

"Greeting cards. Finest in the country. Manufacture 'em. Don't mind admitting I've done pretty well, too."

"Guess homes being split up hasn't hurt your business any, has it?" Hank suggested.

Mr. Grainton winked broadly. "Over fourteen thousand last year. Clear."

Outside the glass brick walls the landscape was winter's frosty desolation. The pilot came in with the passenger list. "Attention, please!" he called. "As our regular passengers know, we have our own system of priorities and our judgment is final. The weather's making up, but we plan the Pittsburgh flight so far. The following persons are checked for passage."

Near the beginning Grainton heard his name called. Then he watched Hank's face. It did not change expression. "I guess you didn't make it," Grainton observed, and boomed sympathy. "Say, now, that's too bad. I'm real sorry!"

"Now, folks," the pilot said, "if our meteorologist gets an O.K. in the next ten minutes, we'll sail."

Passengers kindly take their places in the plane without delay." "Too bad, soldier," Grainton said. "I guess the businessman has top priority now. Those meteorologist fellows sure take an awful responsibility. Betting on weather. Gambling with human lives."

"You don't have to ride the plane, Mr. Grainton."

"I got to get back. I promised my daughter, remember. You'll know how those things are when you get married."

"I am," Hank answered soberly. "That so? Well, wait'll you get a girl like my Sue. Thirteen. You'll understand then."

"My daughter, Carol, is twelve." "You don't say! In Pittsburgh, is she?"

"Yeah." "Say, I'm real sorry. I'd gladly give you my place, only I promised I'd be home sure. You know how it is."

"Yeah, I know. I promised too."

The motors idled, the big props turning over with the peculiar jerky motion they have before the motor revs up. The pilot came out, accompanied by Hank now muffled in an army greatcoat. When Hank took the co-pilot's seat, Grainton protested. "Look here," he said. "That boy's got no priority!"

"Technical Sergeant Gibson is acting co-pilot, sir," the pilot explained. "He's better qualified to fly this ship than I am. Don't you recognize the insignia—A. T. C.?"

They were ready to take off when the meteorologist ran out. After a hurried consultation with Hank the pilot announced apologetically, "Sorry, folks. Storm making over the mountains. Can't endanger human life."

Grainton complained, "I promised my Sue! What am I going to do?"

"Send her a greeting card!" Hank said. "Air mail!"

"How can I?" Grainton demanded. "What do you mean, air mail?"

"Oh, we're taking the ship through," Hank explained. "Neither snow, nor rain, nor sleet, nor gloom of night—don't you remember? And where would the greeting card business be if the mail didn't get through? I'd gladly give you my place, Mr. Grainton, only I promised I'd be home sure. You know how it is!"

Attention!

Gutter and Downspout
Materials are Now Available

During the war, when these materials were not available, your gutter system may have become run down, and is not carrying water from your roof away from the foundation of your house.

Settling of your house from roof water seeping into the ground around the foundation can cause all sorts of trouble, including cracking of the foundation walls, sticking doors and windows, uneven floors, peeling of exterior paint, etc.

The cost of rebuilding or renewing your gutter system will be repaid many times over in savings throughout the house.

Phone 113 for an inspection and estimate of the cost of putting your gutters and downspouts in good condition.

Don't Delay—Action now will save trouble later on!

HICKORY

Master James Stonis celebrated his eighth birthday on Monday, July 1st, with a party for 22 of his young friends from 2 to 4:30 p. m. at his home on route 173. Following an afternoon of games, Mrs. Stonis served the children birthday cake and ice cream and lemonade.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. King and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson King, of Libertyville, attended the Glen View Naval Air Station open house on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cobelli, of Hayward, Wis., spent Wednesday at the Curtis Wells home.

George R. Thompson, of Waukegan, spent the weekend at the Will Thompson home.

Miss Ursula Denart, of Waukegan, was a weekend guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dalgaard.

As we were saying-----

By Jack and Louie

Howdy Folks: Heat will ally pain, in many instances, according to a doctor's statement, but getting hot under the collar won't lessen a pain in the neck.

On the other hand, sitting in front of an electric fan is a good way to blow your top.

Of course, some men are obsessed with the idea that they can keep fit by throwing one.

We heard about another medical theory that claims a man is shorter at night than in the morning.

We have never tried this theory out but we have noticed a tendency to be short at the end of the month.

Have you noticed how many good people are using our cleaning service around these parts?

That's a real sound habit to form.
